

During the week of April 11-15 between the hours of 6:00 a.m. and 8:00 p.m., 20 teams made up of over 100 community volunteers canvassed the streets of targeted areas in the metropolitan Tucson area. The volunteer teams used a nationally recognized Vulnerability Index survey to create a by-name list of individuals experiencing street homelessness who are most at risk of premature death.

In addition to systematically gathering the names, pictures, and dates of birth of individuals sleeping on the streets, the teams also captured data on their health status, institutional history (jail, prison, hospital and military), length of homelessness, patterns of shelter use and previous housing situation. These data were collected by use of a 40 item questionnaire. The Vulnerability Index was used to identify those who have been homeless the longest and are the most vulnerable. This list will be used to target housing and service resources to the most vulnerable in an effort to reduce chronic homelessness within targeted communities.

The Vulnerability Index is based on research by Dr. Jim O’Connell, which shows certain medical conditions place a homeless individual at a higher risk than others for dying if they remain on the streets.
